WINNING OF THE WEST.

Problem In Soil Culture Which Has Been Suc- cessfully Solved.

Every writer on the agricultural possibilities of the western continent, every recent experiment station bulletin, every observant traveler, agrees that the greatest development of agriculture in the next half century must be in what is known as the semi-arid region of America, which includes parts of all the states west of the Missouri river and of Canada and Mexico.

Here is to be the real winning of the West; and it will not be with gun and knife, nor will it be with boots and spurs, but it will be with such intelligent cultivation of the soil that the mystery of the so-called great plains will disappear forever beneath fields of waving grain. It is worth while again calling attention to the fact that the achievements of the farmers of this region have far surpassed the dreams of the pioneers. Farming is a reality in the semi-arid region. From a hundred different directions comes undisputed testimony that practical men are tilling the soil with good results. The work started a dozen years ago by H. W. Campbell, of Lincoln, Neb., whose experiments first drew the attention of the world to the possibilities of this region, has been carried faithfully by him and others who have learned of him, until today it is not a question of whether there is anything in scientific soil culture, but how much and just where and how can soil culture methods be applied. Mr. Campbell has directed work on many model farms in the past and his operations this year are said to be more extensive than ever before, and in recent years the states have taken up similar investigations and everywhere business associations are taking the liveliest interest in what is being done.

The success of the past but indicate in a small way what is in store for the future of this region. Scientific soil culture has opened the door for a new area of expansion which is to result in the making of homes for millions of farmers and orchardists and dairymen on land hitherto listed as almost worthless. The search for gold is directed in a new channel and the search will not be in vein.

Some day when the story of this new development in the winning of the West is written the world will be amazed at results actually achieved.

Red Can Bill a Law.

The session laws of 1907 are out and all laws providing for their own effectiveness "on and after publication in the statutes" are on in full force. Among them is the "red can bill." It is effective now, and housewives and hired girls will hereafter be protected while lighting the kitchen fires, unless they happen to be color blind or entirely blind. This law for which W. A. S. Bird, of Topeka, is responsible, provides that gasoline must be kept in red cans. Therefore, if your gasoline can is not red, paint it.

There will be services at St. Mark's Episcopal church next Sunday evening, as usual. St.

Mark's church is becoming a very popular place of worship, and the sermons delivered by Rector Pooley are both instructive and entertaining. The music by the vested choir is fine, and as the choir has regular rehearsals it will reach the acme of perfection.

ROBBERS RANSACK RICE RESIDENCE.

In Absence of Family In- vade Fort Scott Mansion

Fort Scott, June 1.—Mrs. H. V. Rice arrived home from a two week's stay in Baxter Springs on the noon train, and on opening her home at 214 South Judson street found that during her absence the house had been ransacked by burglars, and much valuable property stolen.

It is not known when the robbery was committed, but it is thought it was Wednesday night one week ago as a lady who lives in the next house noticed that the curtains had been pulled down some time during that night and were not again raised.

The robbers gained an entrance to the house by climbing to the top of the house over the front porch and then forcing an attic window.

Every room in the building was searched thoroughly, and the burglars must have remained in the place for several hours. Not a drawer was left unopened, and the contents of all of them show that a thorough search was made. Mr. Rice's desk had been forced open and the papers were all pulled from the pigeon holes and strewn over the room. In the sleeping rooms the dresser drawers had also been opened, and some of Mr. Rice's clothes had been taken from his bed room to another room at the back of the house where the thieves evidently tried to get them on. The other clothes had been taken from the drawers and were scattered about the room. Even the work basket in which Mrs. Rice kept her embroidery work was ransacked and the contents scattered all about the place.

The property taken was very valuable as it included a gold watch, several set rings, a silver watch and chain, several stick pins containing valuable sets, silver mounted manicure set and a large amount of solid silverware. A considerable amount of plated silverware was also taken, and the thief was evidently not a good judge of solid and plated ware as he left several solid silver pieces in the silver closet and at other places.

The floor was covered with burned matches and in several places goods of different kinds had been badly scorched where the matches were dropped into them. The lights in the building had been cut out before Mrs. Rice left home so he was compelled to resort to the use of matches. It is a wonder the house was not burned.

The police were at once notified of the robbery, but they have as yet been unable to secure any clue that would lead to the arrest of the guilty party.

A Good Democratic Daily.

To the people of this community we heartily recommend The Kansas City Daily Post as a newspaper. It has the strongest and best telegraphic service of all the papers in Kansas City—the Hearst service. The Associated Press reports have always been prejudicial to the Democratic party and readers of Democratic papers have not been able to get at the true inwardness of things, because the Associated Press is dominated by Republicans, who in turn are dominated by the trusts. The Hearst service is free, fair and independent.

In market reports The Post is unsurpassed by any paper in the West. Every detail is thorough and complete. It is organizing a strong corps of country correspondents who are gathering news for it and sending the same in as specials. It is reliably Democratic, vigorous, conservative and straightforward. The subscription price of The Post is $2.50 a year by mail. Therefore, all who want a Democratic daily that has for its motto:

"Here's freedom to him that would read, Here's freedom to him that would write," will do well to subscribe for The Kansas City Daily Post, Kansas City, Mo.

TWO METHODS OF BUSINESS.

One Conspicuous Success and the Other a Complete Failure.

A few years ago the proprietor of a great steel file company in New England, which has several branch factories in various parts of America, altogether employing skilled workmen by the thousand, called at the office of a forwarding firm in New York, one of whose partners is a European, and asked that they suggest the proper way to introduce his files in Europe. This factory makes 7,000 varieties of files, and enjoys a great reputation throughout the mechanical world of America. The agent selected was a European, who had been Americanized, who believed in the virtues of the files he was to sell, and who was familiar with the great opportunities in industrial Europe. He went from one manufacturing town in the old world to another, and to demonstrate the superior quality of the American implement, took similar European tools and filed right through them, to the astonishment of foreign mechanics and factory owners. Orders began to go to America by cable, says a writer in Appleton's Magazine. It was not long before one request reached New England from Germany for 100,000 dozen. A good salesman and superior goods had done the work. The salary of the agent was raised to $20,000 a year and expenses, and the American file today is furthering the constructive work of every mechanical center in Europe. Contrast that masterful record with the fiasco of the American who spent $2,000 to introduce corn medicine late Japan, only to discover that the multitudes of that empire wear no shoes and consequently have no corns.
